

Mideast Tenses for War

Egypt Army Pours Into the Gaza Strip; Thant to Report

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Mideast was alerted Friday night to the possibility of an overt act that might blow up into an Arab-Israeli war.

At the insistence of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and the no-alternative acquiescence of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, the 10-year-old peacekeeping United Nations Emergency Force hauled down its pale blue and white flags and prepared to pull out.

Egyptian soldiers thereupon took over the old UNEF posts in the Egyptian-administered Gaza Strip on Israel's southern frontier.

"Syria, Egypt and Israel have all announced they are only on the defensive," a Western diplomat said in Damascus, Syria, "but tension is high and we are holding our breath."

The 7-nation UNEF, on the border since the Israeli-Egyptian conflict of 1956, ceased all operations.

Egypt has mobilized troops and armor on the frontier, claiming Israel threatens to attack Egypt's ally, Syria.

Israel has countered by taking what it calls appropriate steps along the border with Egypt. Israel denies it plans any aggression, but said it is ready to take care of itself should Egypt try to cross the border.

FROM DAMASCUS, Associated Press Correspondent David Lancashire reported that an estimated 40,000 Syrian troops, plus reinforcements, stood alerted along Syria's 72-mile border with Israel.

Lancashire said diplomatic sources in Damascus feel the mobilization by Egypt makes the present crisis the most serious since 1956. He reported a feeling in Damascus that some stray incident, such as a commando attack, could set off a war.

Damascus radio broadcast no new declarations, threats or actions by the Syrian government.

In Cairo, Moslem clergy, acting on government orders, called on the faithful to prepare for a holy war—jihad—against the Jews.

In Tel Aviv, authoritative sources said a number of heavily armed Egyptian divisions are in the Sinai Desert, including one armored division. The Egyptian buildup and the U.N. withdrawal were seen as the immediate problems.

Diplomats were mobilizing to avert hostilities. In New York, Thant will report Saturday to the 15-nation Security Council on the Middle East situation. A Security Council meeting on the crisis is likely over the weekend or early next week.

Canada has proposed that the dissolved U.N. Emergency Force be moved to Israeli territory.

Thant reported to the U.N. General Assembly in New York Friday that, with grave misgiving, he agreed to Egypt's demand to withdraw the peacekeeping force.

REFERRING to the vacuum left by the United Nations departure, he said the withdrawal "removes the stabilizing influence of an international force operating on the boundaries of the two nations" at a time of armed confrontation.

A dispatch from Cairo said Egyptian troops had taken over all the U.N. posts along the 145-mile frontier between Israel and Egypt. This was confirmed in Ottawa by Canada's for-

Douglas Stays UC Sentences

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Friday stayed until June 14 the sentences of a group of students convicted of misconduct during the 1964 disorders on the University of California campus at Berkeley.

Douglas, who issued the order on the same day he received the appeal, acted to prevent many of those convicted from having to go to jail before final examinations, and thus lose credit for a full semester's work.

The appeal was made by 565 individuals convicted under two California laws. Some of those convicted are still students. Their sentences ranged from fines to 120 days in jail, and Douglas said they were to surrender Friday.

Douglas acted as the justice who administers the 9th U.S. Circuit, which encompasses California.

The order noted that the Supreme Court has not had a chance to consider the appeal, nor has California had time to reply.

Of the total, 496 were convicted of resisting a public officer in the performance of his duties and refusing to leave a public agency after closing hours upon a custodian's request to do so. Ninety-six others were convicted only of the second offense.

The water problem is interesting. Will we run out of the stuff before we have a chance to pollute it completely?

5 OTHERS WOUNDED IN SHOOTOUT

6 Killed at Mexican 'PTA Meeting'

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UPI)—It was a parent-teacher meeting. Hot lead was served. Six persons were shot to death, authorities said, and another five wounded.

It happened in the town of Atoyac, about 90 miles north of the jet-set resort of Acapulco. The jungle-covered hills of the region, known as the "Little Coast", are sometimes called "the last stronghold of the Wild West."

Shootouts over cattle rustling and women are common. Whole families are sometimes wiped out in feuds. Policemen are not well thought of, and are notable by their absence. Men in the area carry their own law in a holster.

The Guerrero State Civic Federation in Atoyac disliked the local school teacher, Julia Pao, officials said, and asked that she be fired. Miss Pao did not resign, but asked for a leave of absence.

L.B. Tugboat Crew of 8 Rescued Off Aleutians

Drifted 30 Hours in Icy Waters

By GEORGE LAINE

Eight bone-chilled crewmen of the Long Beach tugboat Pacific Titan were found alive and in good condition Friday night after they had drifted 30 hours in their liferaft off the Aleutian Islands.

The Coast Guard cutter Confidence said it was taking the eight men back to the Island of Adak, after finding them in icy waters at about 8:30 p.m. However the cutter pulled alongside the fire-charred tugboat first and placed a crew aboard to survey fire damage and await the arrival of a chartered salvage tug.

LOW-LYING FOG had hampered searches—Navy and Coast Guard aircraft—through most of Thursday, when the Pacific Titan caught fire and its crew took to liferafts, and through most of Friday as well. Visibility was restricted to a sixteenth of a mile through most of both days, the Coast Guard said.

But late Friday afternoon, a Navy plane spotted what appeared to be an object in the water when the fog broke briefly. The pilot made a "second" pass over the area and the eight men in the liferaft waved at him. He radioed the cutter, which had headed for the scene at the time of the report of the fire aboard the tug. Two hours later the Confidence arrived and picked up the men.

The same aircraft also spotted the charred bulk of the Pacific Titan and radioed its location back to Adak. In Long Beach, John Turner, president of the Pacific Towboat and Salvage Co., said that the Seattle-based tugboat Donna Foss was proceeding towards the Pacific Titan and would take her in tow.

"I got the call from Adak," Turner said. "They said that the cutter had picked up our men and that all eight of them were reported in good condition."

"It's a shame about the boat, but if the boys are alright, that's what really matters."

The blaze aboard the tug broke out about 2 p.m., Thursday. After an unsuccessful effort to fight the flames, the eight men aboard took to the liferafts. They had spent more than

Van Thieu Set to Oppose Ky

SAIGON (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu has decided to oppose Premier Nguyen Cao Ky for the presidency in the September elections, a spokesman for Thieu said today. The move could badly undermine the unity of South Vietnam's military just at a time when Communist pressure is soaring.

Small Nuclear Warhead Projected for NATO Use

By WILLIAM BEECHER

New York Times Service

LONDON — A major effort is under way to perfect very small, very precise tactical nuclear warheads, including some that are practically fallout free, authoritative sources say.

"We're increasing our efforts to perform those technological advances that could make nuclear weapons more usable in Europe," a top American military planner declared.

He stressed the importance of this work in addressing the question of how the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is going to continue to plan for the defense of Western Europe in face of diminishing forces and loss of maneuver room.

The implications of this development are clear: most military strategists interviewed in the course of visiting six NATO nations were convinced that the announced reductions of American and British ground and air elements, combined with the loss of French territory and forces, increases the likelihood that if war starts, nuclear weapons will be used, and used sooner than would otherwise be the case.

"A thrust through northern Germany," said one British planner, "could only be held for two or three days with conventional weapons. After that, we'd either have to go nuclear, or give up."

But the destructiveness of nuclear weapons in heavily populated regions of Western Europe, such as

Five Navy Planes Shot Down Blasting Viet Power Plant

SAIGON (AP) — Communist gunners shot down five U.S. Navy planes Friday as the carrier-based pilots flew through flak-filled skies over Hanoi to bomb a power plant 1.1 miles from the heart of the city.

Other Navy planes flying cover blasted four MIG17s from the skies and reported damaging a fifth, a U.S. spokesman said Saturday.

The raid on the thermal electric power plant was the closest yet by U.S. warplanes to the center of Hanoi.

U.S. Marines who swept into the southern portion of the demilitarized zone along with government troops for the first time in the war Thursday, reported killing 16 North Vietnamese Friday for a two-day total of 77. About 5,500 Allied troops are involved in the sweep.

The Leathernecks and Vietnamese infantrymen continued to find huge caches of supplies as they

BIEN HOA AIR BASE, Vietnam (Saturday) (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said today South Vietnamese troops now fighting in the demilitarized zone would not cross into North Vietnam "at the present time."

The Douglas Space Center there will build a 20x10-foot vehicle, the Air Force said, but company spokesmen refused to reveal details of the project, with the comment that it is highly secret. Douglas has been working on the MOL design since 1963, and was selected to build the craft in 1965, but the Vietnam war delayed funding of the project.

A $180.4-million contract for a Gemini space capsule, which will power the laboratory after both are launched from a Titan IIIC rocket, was awarded to McDonnell Aircraft Corp., of St. Louis, Mo.

U.S. warplanes, returning to the Hanoi-Haiphong area after a lull of several days, fought a dozen dogfights with Communist MIGs.

A U.S. spokesman said Navy A4 Skyhawks hammered the Hanoi power plant, which produced 20 per cent of the national capacity, while other Navy planes bombed the Van Dien army supply depot five miles south of Hanoi.

No bomb damage assessment was given for either raid.

F8 Crusader pilots from the carrier Bon Homme Richard were credited with shooting down the four MIG17s while flying cover for the Skyhawk pilots raiding the power plant.

They brought to 64 the number of MIG17s and MIG21s shot down by U.S. pilots over North Vietnam. Nine more Communist planes are listed as probable kills.

The Navy, announcing that five of its planes were shot down in Friday's raids, did not give any details about the types of planes or the weapons that brought them down.

The losses bring to 549 the number of U.S. aircraft downed over North Vietnam since August 1964.

The official North Vietnamese news agency claimed 10 U.S. planes were shot down in Friday's raids, and a number of pilots captured.

U.S. Air Force planes attacked the Hoa Lac airfield 20 miles west of Hanoi.

Air Force pilots also hit an area west of the airfield where reconnaissance photos had indicated 31 camouflaged MIG17s were being hidden. They reported their bombs on target.

$674-Million Contract Awarded to Douglas

The Air Force awarded a $674.7-million contract to Douglas Aircraft Co., Huntington Beach, Friday for construction of a Manned Orbiting Laboratory that is currently scheduled to be launched into space in 1970.

The Douglas Space Center there will build a 20x10-foot vehicle, the Air Force said, but company spokesmen refused to reveal details of the project, with the comment that it is highly secret. Douglas has been working on the MOL design since 1963, and was selected to build the craft in 1965, but the Vietnam war delayed funding of the project.

A $180.4-million contract for a Gemini space capsule, which will power the laboratory after both are launched from a Titan IIIC rocket, was awarded to McDonnell Aircraft Corp., of St. Louis, Mo.

The contracts to McDonnell-Douglas represent more than a third of the current total cost estimate of $2.2 billion for the undertaking.

The Air Force said the contracts set definite terms for work which has already begun for the laboratory that is intended to permit two crewmen to work in shirtsleeves in space.

When the project was first announced by President Johnson two years ago, launching was to have been this year and total cost was estimated at $1.5 billion.

But the project ran into Congressional fire in 1966 and played second-fiddle to the Vietnamese war in both 1966 and 1967, when many such programs were scaled down to allow the massive funding that the Asian conflict has required.

Mao Enemies Stage Massacre, Take City

TOKYO — Rebellious Communist Chinese army troops and a mob of more than 100,000 angry workers have recaptured control of Chihsi city in northern Manchuria in a bloody massacre of pro-Mao forces, Japanese correspondents in Peking reported today. The correspondents, quoting wall posters, said an undetermined number of pro-Mao forces had been killed or wounded and more than 1,000 supporters of Communist Party chairman Mao Tse-tung had been taken prisoner. Other Japanese reports from Peking said more than 300 pro-Mao workers were killed in street fighting earlier this week with "conservative reactionaries" in the city of Ipin in the southern Chinese province of Szechwan. The reports, if confirmed, would mark one of the bloodiest chapters of Mao's "cultural revolution." The fighting was intensifying.

Rioters Chant at U.S. Consulate

HONG KONG — More than 1,000 leftist demonstrators marched on the British government house today to make new demands for a meeting with Gov. David Trench. Some of the marchers stopped in front of U.S. consulate to chant anti-American slogans and wave their little red books of quotations of Chinese Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung. There were no incidents at the U.S. building. Foreign Secretary George Brown delivered a strong protest to Red China's charge d'affaires Friday night over treatment of British diplomats in Peking and Shanghai and lectured the Chinese envoy about "shameful behavior" of Chinese demonstrators.

Red Cross Makes Viet Plea

GENEVA — The leaders of the International Red Cross appealed Friday to all sides in the Vietnam war to assure "proper and humane treatment" to prisoners and to conclude a ceasefire to end the civilian population's "intolerable burden of human misery." The appeal was made as concern mounted in the U.S. over the fate of downed pilots and other Americans held prisoners by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong rebels of South Vietnam. In a seven-point statement, the Red Cross officials also urged the warring parties to "refrain from all deliberate attacks upon innocent civilians in Vietnam, whether by aerial or ground weapons, or by torture or wanton murder."

Italy Mob Perils U.S. Sailors

ROME — Thousands of leftist-led Italian demonstrators in at least five cities filled the streets Friday night and shouted anti-American slogans, protesting movement of U.S. Marines into Vietnam's Demilitarized Zone. Two uniformed American sailors, on leave in Rome from their ship docked in Naples, were almost yanked from a taxi by a mob returning from the U.S. Embassy.

Russ Ratify Space Treaty

MOSCOW — The Soviet parliament, after waiting four months, ratified Friday the treaty banning nuclear weapons in outer space. The treaty was signed here Jan. 27 by the United States, the Soviet Union and England. Dozens of other nations signed later. The U.S. Senate quickly ratified it.

Africa Move OK'd

UNITED NATIONS — The General Assembly voted in special session Friday to set up a council to take over the territory of South-West Africa from South Africa and lead it to independence. There was considerable doubt that the move would be effective. The compromise resolution failed to win the critical support of the big powers, most of the nations of Western Europe and the Communist bloc.

Leftwinger Peace Corps Forms in N.Y.

Combined News Services

NEW YORK — A "Revolutionary Peace Corps" is now being formed to send young Americans to work with leftist Latin American guerrillas, it was announced Friday. John Gerassi, a writer and professor of journalism at New York University, said some 20 college students already are involved in the effort which is sponsored by the Free University of New York and the North American Council on Latin America. Gerassi spoke at a meeting called to consider various ways of opposing the draft. The former journalist told some 400 persons that "the U.S. is trying to dominate the world through violence and we are benefitting from it." He said the "Revolutionary Peace Corps" would send young Americans to "work with the national liberation forces wherever they are." Cautioning that "chances are that, for every two that go down there, one will be a CIA agent," Gerassi said the volunteers would work in "nonsensitive" jobs.

Man Dies in Tornado

OAKLAND, Md. — One man was killed Friday night when his home was snatched in the air by a tornado and hurled 300 yards into a barn. The dead man was identified as Lewis D. White, 45, who lived about 9 miles east of this Western Maryland town. The brother of the victim, Harry E. White, 47, reported that he was outside, saw the tornado funnel and took refuge. The four-room frame home was thrown over his own head and had shattered into kindling against the large dairy barn. White said his brother had been injured in an automobile accident earlier this week and was bedridden with injuries.

Clergy Urges Taxing of Churches

NEW YORK — An organization of Episcopal lawyers and clergymen here has urged that income tax be imposed on real estate and other untaxed commercial interests owned by churches but not used for religious purposes. About half of the group, the Guild of St. Ives, recommended that churches also be taxed on income from stocks, savings accounts and other "passive" investments that are now tax-free. In addition, the guild urged that churches be required to begin issuing the same sort of periodic financial statements now required of other non-profit organizations.

ATT Rate Probe Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission ordered an investigation of the discount rates offered by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. to regulated industries. At issue are the ATT services known as Telpak C and D which give such regulated industries as pipeline, railroads, public utilities and government agencies the chance to share the cost of using the circuits in a Telpak system.

Flareup in Rubber Plant Strike

AKRON, Ohio — United Rubber Workers union pickets at the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. plant here barred some 3,000 salaried and maintenance employees from the plant for several hours Friday. Pickets said they were dissatisfied with lack of progress in negotiations. Three of the big five rubber companies—B. F. Goodrich Co., Uniroyal and Firestone—were struck 29 days ago, idling some 50,000 URW members.

Auto Sales 'Over the Hump'

DETROIT — General Motors President James M. Roche said Friday the auto industry is over the hump insofar as the sales slump is concerned. Roche made his comments at an impromptu news conference after the four-hour General Motors stockholders meeting at which board chairman Frederic G. Donner announced he will retire Nov. 1.

Driver Walkout Snarls Traffic

Pentagon Protesters Ruled Guilty

Combined News Services
Fourteen of the 20 pacifists who staged a sit-in at the Pentagon last week protesting the war in Vietnam were found guilty of loitering Friday. Two others were found innocent.

The cases of the remaining four are pending before a U.S. district judge. These four, who refused to agree to be judged by a U.S. commissioner, are Suzanne Williams, 18, Amherst, Mass., Charles Matthel, 19, and Louis Waconker, 25, both of Voluntown, Conn., and Peter Kliger, 28, of New York.

U.S. Commissioner Alex Akerman Jr. placed 13 of the 14 convicted pickets on six months' probation. He sentenced them to 30 days in jail but suspended the sentence.

Terms of the probation include that the protesters do not loiter, sleep or assemble at the Pentagon for the next six months.

BY THE SEA

A curly blonde found out Friday that boaters have trouble enough getting out of the bay at Miami, Fla., without being distracted by nudists.

Nadia Pobihuska, a 22-year-old Canadian, was fined $50 for indecent exposure after police told how she sunbathed in the buff on Government Cut Jetty a week ago. A small flotilla of pleasure boats anchored dangerously close to the rocks to enjoy the scenery. Lt. Jerry Kedierski testified in municipal court.

Miss Pobihuska said she had been sun bathing on the jetty for four years. "But that was the first time I ever took the bottom off," she said.

SAVIOR

A man who said he is the "Savior" was charged in Charlotte, N.C., with murder Friday on charges of beating a blind man to death with his fists in an effort to get him to see.

Hearing for Carey F. Maxwell, 28, was postponed until next week because Maxwell was acting "pretty wild." The victim of the beating was 62-year-old Fred Grier, who was blinded 37 years ago when dynamite exploded in his face while he was working on a construction project.

A physician who had treated Maxwell in the past for "a nervous condition" said he referred to himself as "the Savior" and claimed he could make the blind see.

WEDDING

Roy Thinner, 29, star of television's "The Invaders," and actress Lynn Loring, 23, obtained a marriage license Friday and said they plan to be married May 28. It will be the first marriage for Miss Loring. Thinner, who also starred in television's "The Long Hot Summer," was divorced last May 11 by his wife, Barbara Chapman Thinner.

MARY FRENCH
Murderer's Helper

EXPERIMENT

A former girl friend of Charles Schmid told Friday how she helped Schmid and John Saunders lure 15-year-old Allen Rowe to her death in a lonely desert wash near Tucson.

Miss French, 21, who is serving a four-to-five-year prison term as an admitted accessory, said at Schmid's trial she did not see the killing but that she later saw the girl lying on the sand covered with blood and helped bury her.

The body has never been found.

The plain brunette was the second prosecution witness. She testified that on the night of May 31, 1964, Schmid convinced her to lure the Rowe girl into the desert because he "wanted to see if he could kill a girl and get away with it and he wanted to see how it would feel to kill someone."

Miss French said she waited in the car and heard the Rowe girl scream several times and that Schmid came back to the car and "grabbed me, kissed me and said 'we killed her.'"

The first day of testimony ended with attorneys battling over whether Saunders, who pleaded guilty to killing Miss Rowe with Schmid, should be allowed to testify.

SALE

A five-day auction sale of effects from the Astor family's Cliveden home ended Friday with a total take of $448,418.80. The estate was put up after the death last year of the third Lord Astor. The home now is a historical site.

Dog's Best Friend Is Parks Director

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) — State Parks Director William Penn Mott Jr. recommended Friday that the California Parks Commission back legislation that would allow dogs to be kept overnight in state parks.

A bill that would allow dogs overnight in parks with more than 150 campsites has passed the Assembly, but still is to be considered by the Senate.

HELLO, PARIS

Two American doctors took off for Paris Friday in a tiny, single-engined monoplan linking their transatlantic flight to the 40th anniversary of Charles A. Lindbergh's solo hop that thrilled the world. But the physicians abandoned efforts to duplicate the Lone Eagle's schedule.

PLAY ON FEAR

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Friday accused the National Rifle Association of "playing on the fears of the American people" by intimating that the police cannot enforce the laws.

Kennedy said that the NRA magazine, The American Rifleman, in its May issue, devoted five pages "tied to the encouragement of the use of firearms for protection against civil disorders and intruders in the home."

Sure You Can Play Organ Music

Beginners, especially those who have never played a note, who may think they have a "tin ear" or can't "carry a tune in a basket" are invited to come in and learn to play a tune free, in minutes.

"Instant Organ Playing," was the way one leading columnist described our revolutionary new rapid learning method. It makes playing the Hammond Organ surprisingly easy says Bob Pierce who had the first (No. 1) Hammond Organ and has for years owned the Hammond Organ Studios, 2188 Lakewood Blvd., just north of the Traffic Circle.

The first time you sit down, one of our highly trained staff members will have you playing a pleasing melody, even if you have never studied music.

The music you play will be thrilling to your ears and your friends will enjoy listening. Learning is fun because you progress quickly as you play complete songs. Playing the organ is a hobby that will reward you pleasantly all the days of your life.

There is nothing to buy. No hidden charges, no obligations, no gimmicks, no devices, no notes to read, no previous musical experience is necessary. It's hard to believe, we know, but it's absolutely true!

Remember, you don't have to make an appointment. Come in today, or this evening or any time from 9 to 9, Monday through Friday, all day Saturday, or 10 to 5 on Sunday.

We are so excited about this new revolutionary rapid learning method that we want everyone in town to know the sheer joy and pleasure of playing a big sounding tune on the Hammond Organ. Plan to come in at your earliest opportunity to the friendly Hammond Organ Studios.

FEELS FIT

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower came out of the hospital Friday saying he feels fine enough to take the trip to Asia and Vietnam that President Johnson has suggested.

The 76-year-old general, bronzed and smiling, left Walter Reed Army Medical Center after a two-week stay for treatment of an intestinal upset.

GOOD GRIEF

Gov. Reagan's schedule for next week includes his first state Capitol meeting with Sen. Thomas Kuchel May 26. Reagan and Kuchel met once while Reagan was governor-elect and again last winter in Washington.

The governor's schedule also includes the declaration of Charles Schultz Day Wednesday and a meeting with the creator of the Peanuts cartoon strip.

Welfare Checks May Be Light

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Spencer Williams, director of state health and welfare agencies, said Friday more than a million state welfare recipients possibly will not receive their full checks in June because the federal government has "over-extended" itself.

Williams explained to a news conference at the Biltmore Hotel that the federal government may not be able to finance its 50 percent of the state's welfare program.

California has 1,372,000 persons on its welfare rolls, and all will be affected unless the federal government appropriates the money "within the next four or five days," Williams said. When such problems have arisen in the past, he said, California advanced the funds to the federal government. But this year, due to "serious financial deficit in the budget," California is unable to do so, he said.

WILLIAMS SAID he "could not conceive" of the federal government not appropriating the funds. But, he added, "the federal government has never come this close in the past."

Tactical A-Bombs Developed

(Continued from Page A-1) fallout on innocent civilians and blast damage in built up towns and cities, has caused serious second thoughts, particularly among West German officials, about whether the cure might not be as bad as or worse than the disease.

Thus the major program to develop what one general called "cookie cutter nuclear weapons."

"We're fast developing smaller warheads offering very precise, predictable effects," he said. "One family of warheads, if detonated up in the air over the target, produces little or no fallout, but very heavy blast and heat effects."

"Another development," he said, "enhances short-term radiation as its principal element, allowing you to go after troops encamped in an evacuated town without destroying the town."

Another officer, a weapons specialist, explained that this latter technique involves enhancing short-lived neutron rays, while virtually eliminating longer-term gamma rays that contaminate particles of earth that constitute the major element in fallout.

"It's ironic," commented one American diplomatic official, "that while France was a full fledged partner in NATO, it blocked our efforts to move the alliance's formal doctrine away from quick resort to nuclear weapons. Now that France is out, we've managed to change the doctrine, but force cutbacks and such are pulling us back toward the necessity of relying on nuclear weapons against anything but a relatively modest military flareup."

American and British political leaders, in a view widely held throughout the alliance, believe the likelihood of Soviet aggression is diminishing, therefore it's permissible to take a calculated risk and thin out the forward defenses.

But NATO military people, of whatever nationality, who have the responsibility for defending Europe if the detente should suddenly collapse and war erupt, are trying desperately to figure out just what they have to stem the tide with and how soon they'd have to resort to nuclear weapons.

None of them is anxious to move into nuclear warfare, hoping that the presence of thousands of tactically nuclear weapons in Europe backed up by strategic nuclear weapons in the U.S. will deter the Soviet Union from taking any gamble that could end up on what one strategist calls "the nuclear escalator."

about $25 million from the federal government. He said the total California welfare programs cost about $1 billion annually.

Williams said he did not think it would happen, but if Congress failed to appropriate money in the near future, the state would send out partial payment checks covered by state funds. He added that there were no funds available for the state to borrow.

Programs imperiled were the Aid to Aged Persons (OAS), Aid to Blind Persons (AB), Aid to Disabled (ATD), Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and General Home Relief.

Mideast Tenses for War

To mask further troop movements, Radio Cairo announced that the Sinai Peninsula was a "forbidden area" to U.N. forces. The peninsula, a desert waste, makes up most of the frontier between Israel and Egypt.

A U.N. spokesman announced that the entire seven-nation force had ended all operations. In addition to Canada, Sweden and Yugoslavia, other nations contributing men to the force are Brazil, Denmark, India and Norway.

A London report said warnings had reached Western powers that Israel will fight any Egyptian move to block its outlet to the sea through the Gulf of Aqaba.

THE withdrawal of 50 Scandinavian troops from an outpost at Sharm El Sheikh, controlling the entrance to the gulf, leaves Egypt free, if it wants to risk it, to reimpose a ban on Israeli ships in the gulf that was enforced before the 1956 war. The U.N. force had insured free navigation in the gulf, the main Israeli benefit from that war.

Students and workers in Cairo flocked to centers to register as volunteers for what is now termed "the sacred march on Israel."

Hundreds of students from Moslem countries in Asia and Africa thronged around the headquarters of the Higher Council for Islamic Affairs and demanded "arms to fight Israel."

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel expressed surprise at the "hasty agreement" Thant gave to withdrawal from Egypt.

"Israel does not, of course, rely for her defense on an international force," he said in a statement. "She relies on her own resources, but Israel agrees with the view expressed by other governments concerning the implications of Egypt's request which changes the security balance of the area."

A series of recent raids by Israel and Syria in border regions underlies the present crisis.

MAY BE HEIR TO EARLDOM OF ESSEX

Bladen Horace Capell, 44 a clerk in Yuba City market, goes about his chores after being informed he might be heir to earldom of Essex if none of distant Australian relatives are still alive. He is distant relative of ninth earl, Reginald Capell, 60, who succeeded to the title last year and has no children. As far as Capell knows, there's no money involved and it would cost him funds he can't afford to authenticate the title.

Senate OKs Rush Money for Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted an extra $75 million in antipoverty funds Friday to try to head off rioting in some of the big cities this summer.

President Johnson told a news conference he asked for the money on the basis of staff reports from San Francisco, New York, Chicago, Baltimore, Washington and five other cities he didn't name.

He said the money would be used to provide new jobs, supervise recreation, illuminate playgrounds, provide swimming pools, hydrants, etc., and would be sent to areas that need it immediately.

"WE ARE now working on the House members, hoping they will approve that request," Johnson said.

The money is included in a $2.26-billion supplemental appropriation measure which the Senate passed 74-1. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., cast the dissent.

The bill now goes back to the House for action on the extra $75 million and $143 million in other items which the Senate added.

The $2.26 billion includes funds for a variety of federal programs and agencies during the remaining weeks of this fiscal year.

L.A. Fund Need Told for Anti-Riot Plans

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles area lacks a coordinated plan to prevent racial trouble among the young this summer if federal appropriations fail to materialize, officials indicated Friday.

The Economic and Youth Opportunities Agency said it has a number of programs ready to implement if federal funds are forthcoming.

If such money is made available, officials pointed out, planned summer programs by city and county schools and the recreation and parks departments in the area could be augmented quickly in poverty areas.

The agency already has guidelines established for summer programs.

"DURING THE summer of 1965," according to the guidelines, "the emphasis was on recreation and provision of leisure time activities. We believe this is not the most effective way to involve youth."

"Last summer the emphasis was on work experience. This provides a relevant context for programing and is a more effective way of meeting youth need, provided the work experiences are real ones."

The agency's program planning committee, which recently adopted the guidelines in anticipation of receiving federal funds, said "the need for anti-riot control" is an "inadequate rationale for increasing efforts during the summer months."

"To the extent that we 'crash-planned' for the past two summers and hired more youths than could be given meaningful assignments," the committee continued, "we have fostered questionable attitudes in these youths."

"There were too many examples of youths who stated they knew they were being paid not to riot. The fact that some youths were not given useful work seemed to validate their attitude," the committee reported.

But paying youngsters for useful work "has proven an effective antipoverty strategy," the committee said.

LBJ Signs Desalting Plant Bill of the participating utilities in the plan.

He said that the event was vital in the Southland's efforts to meet the "day-to-day water needs of our swelling population."

"It promises," Jensen said, "to end the paradox of watershort civilizations on the shores of vast oceans." And, he added, the action taken Friday will hold "far-reaching consequence" not merely for Southern California but for the rest of the world as well.

AT A CEREMONY in the White House east room, Johnson said the bill is a beginning rather than an end of such efforts. He said this "must be the first of many ventures of this nature throughout the world."

Johnson said, "our sights are set on a whole family of desalting plants — to help not only coastal communities, but inland towns also, which are troubled by brackish water supplies."

Some of the plants will be powered by atomic energy, others by coal, gas, oil or possibly reconstituted waste products, he said, adding that until they are built, urgent water problems must be faced.

The President praised the "partnership" that is making the plant possible. It is a joint venture of the federal government, the Metropolitan Water District, the Los Angeles City Bureau of Water & Power, the Southern California Edison Co. and the San Diego Gas & Electric Co.

Those attending included Vice President Humphrey, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif.; Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty; Reps. Chet Holifield, D-D-Montebello; Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach; Richard Hanna, D-Huntington Beach; George Brown, D-Monterey Park, and Interior Secretary Stewart Udall.

Dedication Sunday for Christ Second Baptist 'Church Must Change to Gain New Life'

By LES RODNEY

"It is just possible that the church in terms of its present institutional forms and much of its dearly loved habits must be ready in obedience to its Lord to lose its life, in order that it may have newness of life."

This was the heart of a discussion on church union Friday at First Congregational Church by Rev. Dr. David G. Colwell, addressing the annual meeting of the Southern California Conference of the United Church of Christ.

Dr. Colwell, pastor of First Congregational of Washington, D.C., is chairman of the continuing 10-denomination Consultation on Church Union.

Emphasizing that "the church of Jesus Christ truly finds its reason for being in mission rather than in institutional survival," the tall minister, a fullback star at Yale in the 1930s, addressed himself to those who ask why union cannot be spiritual, why it has to be organic.

"We are a religion of incarnation," he declared. "Christian faith does not accommodate or understand a breaking apart of body and spirit. The world does not believe that thou has sent me" when the Body of Christ is broken and fragmented.

"The difficult area seems to be that of structure. It is here that many persons seem to find their emotions most securely anchored. Yet the basic structures of the churches came into being in response to conditions of life which no longer exist."

Readiness by the United Church of Christ to "lose its life, if need be, that Christ's church may become visibly one," is not to be interpreted as a repudiation of its past, he said. "It is rather an attempt to learn a fresh openness and faithfulness to the Lord of the church."

Addressing himself to "a tendency to equalize union with uniformity," Dr. Colwell said COCU specifically disavows such intent. "I should hope in fact there would be creative diversity within a united church, in worship, style of mission, forms of church life in the local area, forms of ministry, etc."

Because of the very existence of COCU, he said, "there is already much opening between the denominations all through the country."

Creativity is called for in the local area, he emphasized, saying "Those who complain about a lack of control ought to use their freedom to develop new and creative forms of church life."

The United Church of Christ, he said, is "not interested in church union for the sake of bigness and power; it does not believe it is called to involvement in a trading venture in which denominations can be put together with as little dislocation and sin as possible."

"The United Church of Christ, confessing its sin, does seek to hear and respond with obedience to the Word that God speaks to us. We believe that the Head of the Church calls us to renewal, to reunion, and to the world... Who sets the timetable for church union? Our own sense of convenience and organization, or the God who is stirring up all of life and 'throwing it open?'"

In an interview later, he recognized that the shock of change was undoubtedly great to contemplate for many good church members, "and this is a real problem."

"But there is the same shock in the other swift changes of life today, from rural to urban, etc. They must understand, and I think they are starting to understand, that it is the faith, not the form that has always been the main thing."

The church is "in trou-

A PROUD DAY ON CALIFORNIA

A proud congregation and many friends will hold the first services Sunday morning in the newly completed sanctuary of Christ Second Baptist Church, at the corner of New York and California Avenues.

Completed for a sum in excess of $250,000, financed solely by members of the congregation, Long Beach Negro residents, the sanctuary for the growing church was completed under the leadership of Rev. Herman Gore Sr., pastor since 1950.

Opening day message will be brought by Rev. Herman Gore Jr. of St. Louis, Mo. The architect, George Williams, will present to point out and explain the features of the edifice. The festive opening day, starting with the 9:30 a.m. services, include a box dinner in the lower level dining room.

The sanctuary contains a circular pulpit surrounded by splashes of the original tabernacle colors, enclosed in 18 feet of blue velvet, and gold draperies copied from a Holy Land temple. Other features:

A unique baptismal pool behind the pulpit, the bottom of which is red tile representing the Fountain of Blood. The upper portion is light blue tile, with an original mosaic of the Madonna and Child fashioned by Mrs. Reon Gore, wife of the pastor.

The 725-seat blue carpeted upper sanctuary contains fruitwood pews, an organ and piano, an elevated choir loft, sound system and an intercom which enables the pastor to pray audibly from his office for those at the altar in the sanctuary.

A 300-seat lower assembly contains an enclosed stage, classrooms, nursery, kitchen and dining area.

Christ Second Baptist holds Sunday services at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., with Sunday School at 8:30 a.m., BTU at 6 p.m., and Wednesday and Saturday prayer services at 7:30 p.m.

'Teen Line' Counseling on Sex Questions

"Teen Line," the popular telephone chat at 598-2220 instituted by the youth ministry at El Dorado Park Community Church, is concentrating for the next few weeks on helping young people who are confused about sex, reports Rev. Jim Pfingstel, minister of youth and education.

The recorded messages are termed "a combination of psychology, biology, common sense and Christianity" and are said to be candid, conversational in style, not a lecture, with a "positive approach, not negative and narrow."

The phone number of Rev. Pfingstel is given on the recording so those who may wish to talk with an informed and sympathetic adult counselor while remaining anonymous may do so.

AT 1ST BAPTIST

Capt. Louis Zamperini, an unusual American, will speak Tuesday at the 6:30 p.m. Father-Son Night sponsored by the Men's Fellowship Dinner of First Baptist Church, 10th and Pine.

The former Olympic star, long-time mile record-holder and Air Force captain will tell one of World War II's dramatic stories, how he survived a Japanese prison after being declared dead. Call church for reservations by Monday, and suggest sponsors, if you don't have a son, "borrow one" for the evening and give him a treat.

Hill Pastor New Presbyterian Head

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Tennessee mountain pastor, Rev. Dr. Eugene Smathers, 59, took over Friday as the chief presiding officer of the United Presbyterian Church, summoning it to take its stand "at the side of the poor."

That's where he has lived and served since boyhood. "The church has got to stick by a situation," he told a news conference. "It can't lick problems anywhere by quick, fly-by-night means. The church has to be there, with people."

A tall, lean man, with a soft drawl and a homespun wit, he was chosen moderator of his 3.3 million-member denomination in an upset election over Rev. Dr. William H. Hudnut Jr., of New York, head of the church's $50-million capital fund drive.

For 35 years, Dr. Smathers has been pastor of a small, rural church, Calvary Presbyterian at Big Lick, near Crossville, Tenn., in a hill region of poverty which he has helped to ease with numerous health and agricultural projects.

"The church has to relate the gospel to the real problems people face," he said, observing that his back-country congregation started doing that long before "we learned the words for it" or before it became a fashionable theme in city church circles.

Asked about his approach to evangelism, he allowed, "My approach hasn't worked too well." He added: "you win people by loving them. My concept of evangelism is you've got to be with people, and show the love of God through our love for them, whether they come into the church or not."

His election came on the opening day of the denomination's week-long General Assembly, its top governing body, drawing about 2,000 delegates.

The son of a tenant farmer, ever since he began his ordained ministry, he has been at Big Lick, where he led local people in building its first church, setting up a health clinic program, farm cooperative, and holding the south's first interracial, interfaith camps in 1940 and 1941. He is president of the Board of the Farmers Cooperative in his area.

Concerning the efforts for Christian unity, Dr. Smathers said, "the church can't meet its responsibilities as divided as we are. We've got to find more ways of working together. I don't know if organic union is the only way, but it's the right direction."

About the Vietnam war, he said, "I'm like many Americans. I'm opposed to what's going on there, but I don't know how we can get out. I'm particularly concerned that the church stick up for freedom of expression about it."

Corps Leader Stresses Compassion in Action

Compassion is meaningless unless it leads to direct, Christ-inspired service to suffering humanity, declares Captain Harold D. Broughton, commanding officer of The Salvation Army in Long Beach.

Commenting on "Compassion in Action," theme of National Salvation Army Week May 21-28, Captain Broughton said:

"Compassion is 'nothing more or less' than a temporary emotional reaction to a 'heart-touching' incident or experience if it does not definitely, directly and promptly motivate action in terms of service to humanity, helpfulness to our brother in need, and Christ-inspired assistance to suffering humanity.

"Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ is our example in this respect. We read in the Bible that Jesus, seeing the leper, was 'moved with compassion, put forth his hand, and touched him, and said unto him, Be thou clean.' Here is compassion in action! The followers of Jesus are to be similarly motivated and activated. National Salvation Army Week focuses attention upon this obligation."

New Health Education Study for All Schools

Objective teaching about religion in public school classrooms has been endorsed by a stalwart defender of church-state separation.

mittee on Public Affairs, which represents all major Baptist bodies in the country, is circulating throughout the country a pamphlet which offers "suggested guidelines" for constitu-

Evangelical Released Time Finale Sunday

The annual Evangelical Released Time Education closing program, in which fourth and fifth graders demonstrate to parents and guests what they have learned, will be held Sunday, 2:30 p.m. in Evangelical United Brethren Church, 17th Street and Temple Avenue.

Trophies will be presented and all are invited, says Mrs. G. McCleary, director. Evangelical Released

Time is part of the Long Beach Unified School District's highly successful program, in which 6,000 fourth and fifth graders participate. They are released from school the last hour of the day for religious instruction, with parent's consent, and attend programs sponsored by the Evangelicals, the Council of Churches, or the Roman Catholics.

GOINGS ON

The sixth annual Dominguez Rancho Fiesta will be held today and Sunday on the picturesque and historic grounds of the Claretian Junior Seminary, 18127 S. Alameda St., Compton, once the ranch home of the Dominguez family, with a museum maintained. Singer Dennis Day will be a Sunday guest, and there are games, booths, a dozen prizes, and an old fashioned pit bar-b-q dinner from noon to 6 on Sunday. . . . A guest speaker from the Narcotic Educational Foundation of America will discuss the problem of drugs Sunday, 7:30 p.m. in St. Luke's Episcopal, Seventh Street and Atlantic Ave. . . . Lakewood Village Community, Centralia Street and Sunfield Avenue, will dedicate its new Allen organ Sunday, 7:30 p.m., with a concert by Clark Spangler, open to the public. . . . Pastor C. O. Rosenius Norheim, synodical evangelist for the Church of the Lutheran Brethren, and founder of the Lutheran Gospel Hour radio chain, will appear Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the Long Beach church, meeting in Goodwill Industries Chapel 800 W. Pacific Coast Highway. Pastor and Mrs. Norheim sing regularly on KRKD Sunday, 2 p.m.

Norheim

Bob Turnbull, currently portraying the Handsome Knight in the Warner Bros. filming of "Camelot," and very active in Hollywood Christian work, will be guest speaker Sunday, 6 p.m. at the youth banquet of First Lutheran, 946 Linden Ave. . . . The famed full-length Billy Graham film about youth, "The Restless Ones," will be shown next Friday and Saturday, May 26, 27, in University Baptist, 3434 Chatwin Ave., as an experiment to see how the public responds to such a church showing. Tickets available at church. . . . Social Concerns Council of Long Beach Unitarian, 5540 Atherton Ave., presents Carl Braden, executive director of the Southern Conference Educational Fund, former journalist and editor who was sentenced to 15 years in jail on a sedition charge after he and his wife helped a Negro family buy a home in Louisville, the home later blown up by dynamite. Platform will be shared with Robert Hunt, of the Long Beach Teen Post. . . . A Rosecrucians strawberry festival will be held Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m. at 2455 Atlantic Ave., featuring colorful dress, music, singing and lecture. . . . African Lutherans Reject Apartheid Umpunulo, Natal — The Union of South Africa's "Policy of Separate Development" — apartheid or strict racial segregation — was rejected as unscriptural by a Lutheran pastoral conference here.

The "pastoral institute," held at the Lutheran Theological College during the first two weeks of April, was attended by 70 pastors from the member bodies of the Federation of Evangelical Lutheran Churches in Southern Africa.

In a memorandum issued at the close of the sessions, the participants asserted that "in its practical implementation this Policy of Separate Development limits human rights of the non-White citizens as to the right of labour, the right of buying and owning property, the right of free and full education, the right of freedom of speech and of full participation in political and social life."

"We, therefore, reject the Policy of Separate Development," they said.

White pastors who particitional treatment of religion in tax-supported schools.

It strongly supports the Supreme Court's view that "religious exercises," such as classroom prayers and devotional reading of scripture, have no place in public schools.

But the High Court has made it clear, the Baptist pamphlet says, that there is no constitutional barrier to "objective teaching which introduces material of a religious nature intrinsic to the public school curriculum."

PROJECTED NEW WRIGLEY HEIGHTS BAPTIST CHURCH ON MAGNOLIA AVENUE

Set Kickoff for Heights New Church

Wrigley Heights Baptist Church, at 3190 Magnolia Ave., will kick off its long planned building program on Monday with a banquet to be held in the new First Brethren Church, 36th Street and Linden Avenue.

Wrigley Heights Baptist Church, at 3190 Magnolia Ave., will hold its Building Program Kick-off Banquet Monday at 8:30 p.m. using the facilities of the new First Brethren Church, 36th Street and Linden Avenue. Dr. Herbert Lockyer, president of Lockyer Associates, an inter-denominational church service organization, will be the principal speaker.

Banquet objective is to begin to raise the first $125,000 needed in a 10-year building program. The first units of approximately 13,250 square feet, now in the planning stages, will include a sanctuary seating 600, nursery, preschool facilities and administration building; junior and junior high department facilities and classrooms; choir rooms, and small chapel seating about 100; as well as required off-street parking.

ADDITIONAL buildings in the future will include other educational facilities. Architect is Charles A. Beck of Costa Mesa, who also designed the El Dorado Park Community drive-in Church in Long Beach.

The present pastor, Dr. Ernest R. Johnson, is the third in the 16-year history of the church and has served for the past 12 years. His son, Jerry, serves as minister of youth and music, while completing his theological schooling at Talbot Seminary.

Double services and Sunday Schools, begun in 1962, are conducted each Sunday morning. It was in 1963 that the Olive-Hill Bethany Baptist Church, formerly located at 801 E. Hill Street, merged its 50-year history and traditions and its membership into his church. The church now assists 26 missionaries around the world and is associated with the Conservative Baptist Association of America and with the National Association of Evangelicals.

Pope's Visit to Fatima; Technology Under Fire

By LES RODNEY

Pope Paul's visit to Fatima last Saturday is widely interpreted in Roman Catholic circles as a gesture to tradition and conservatism in the Vatican's constant pursuit of keeping a balance while accommodating to change.

All could hail the pontiff's appeal for world peace, but other aspects of the trip held special appeal for conservatives.

The apparitions of the Virgin Mary reported at Fatima in 1917 by three Portuguese children are closely associated with anti-communism, and prayer for Russia's conversion. Pope Paul emphasized this at Fatima when he spoke of lands where religion is oppressed. This was seen as a counterweight to recent development of more amicable relations with Eastern European governments.

The Pope's trip also paid special homage to Mary at a time when ecumenists are discussing emphasis on Mary as a point of major difference between Catholics and Protestants.

Still another related facet of the visit in the context of inner-church tensions was the implication of the highest blessing on belief in this miraculous happening, which many liberal Catholics do not accept.

The Fatima apparitions have ecclesiastical approval but are not a mandatory article of faith, meaning that Catholics are free to accept or reject them.

WHO IS "the most dangerous man" in society?

According to Rev. Dr. Franklin H. Kittell, president of Iowa Wesleyan College, a Methodist-related institution, he is "the technically sophisticated barbarian."

"Such men," he said at an interreligious conference on the human conscience in Boston last week, "can be bought and sold. We have produced a technological society capable of placing specialists in power who are morally, ethically and spiritually as illiterate as some bush dweller in far-off Australia."

He made a plea for the cultivation of "wisdom" along with technical skills in modern education.

The pioneering get-together on conscience, sponsored by the National Council of Churches, Bishop's Committee for Inter-religious Affairs, and Synagogue Council of America, and made possible by a Ford Foundation grant, drew 178 Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders.

A glance at extracts of the proceedings shows that the assembled men of God pulled few punches and said few routine, comfortable things. But they were not one-sided. For instance while agreeing on strongly reaffirming the basic American right to dissent from the government's policies in Vietnam, the report on "War and Peace" also said:

"The religious community should also support the right of conscientious participation in and support of the government's policy in Vietnam."

A group on "Civil Law and Conscience" noted that "religion in general upholds the law, but (it) accepts the right of the individual conscience to protest, even to the point of defying the law and accepting the penalty for such defiance. Civilization has often moved forward because enough people challenged the status quo."

Rev. Bernard Haring, Roman Catholic and visiting professor of moral theology at Yale, warned that people who consistently fail to follow the dictates of their conscience "disintegrate."

Lacking in the modern meaning of conscience, Father Haring said are "humility, repentance and reparation. It is the mission of believers to communicate this message more convincingly to the secular man of today."

THE TECHNOLOGY. Humanity gap was also noted at a national church-sponsored consultation in Chicago, where Dr. Donald N. Michael of the University of Michigan's Center for Research on Utilization of Scientific Knowledge allowed that the need to improve social institutions "is far more critical than inventing new weapons, faster computers, supersonic transports or any other form of technological hardware."

Did someone in the crowd mumble "Amen?"

GRACE BRETHREN

Church of Seal Beach has welcomed home missionaries Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ball and their six children after 2½ years in Boxoum, Central Africa. Before going to Africa, Ball owned his own printing business in Orange County. In Boxoum he handled the printing for the Brethren program as well as three other Protestant missions. Despite lack of generator power, he says, several hundred thousand pieces of literature were turned out last year.

Ball is enthusiastic about the cooperation of the native people, and their strong desire to learn. He termed his printing crew of 11 native men "steady, dependable . . . and incidentally, all Christians."

Figures he compiled shows only 10 per cent of the older people able to read, with the percentage rising as the age decreases, until at 15 and under, 75 per cent of the population can now read.

The Balls are on a one-year furlough, during which they can be contacted for speaking engagements through the church. He helps subsidize part of the African printing program, allowing for lower cost literature and Bibles.

"We have grown to love the country and its people," he says, "and look forward to returning there to continue our work."

LONG BEACH PASTOR'S SERMON

'Birth Itself Is a Miracle!'

This is the concluding portion of a sermon by James S. McKown, pastor of First Christian Church, on the topic "Can An Intelligent Man Believe in the Virgin Birth?" presented here as a forceful viewpoint on an oft-debated point of Scripture.

Why shouldn't we believe it? There are several suggestions given why we shouldn't.

The virgin birth appears to be, first of all, perfectly unbelievable. It seems to be the product of a first-century superstition that isn't quite moral, that isn't quite scientific. These people had all their mystery religions which abounded in that time, and were full of such superstition, so they were gullible and fell for it. But we're too intelligent for that. We're living in a scientific age. We understand things, don't we? Is it not overtaxing the natural capacity of faith to ask men to believe that Christ did not come into this life as a process of ordinary generation?

Wherever Christ is born, there is a miracle. I don't think it's possible for you to define in ordinary language what happens when Christ is born in the human soul. I don't think you can define what happens in any life that is dedicated and devoted to God. You cannot explain categorically how God motivates that life, and changes that life, and uses that life. This is quite beyond the ability to explain in natural scientific terms. It is something other than a psychosis, it is something other than a psychological phenomenon, it is something other than just a change of convictions.

WHEN A person heading in one direction, because of Christ heads in an entirely different direction, something beyond our understanding takes place. This can be said to be somewhat miraculous. Joseph Parker said, "When Christ is born in our hearts, particularly the same operation is gone through as is indicated here. It is an unexpected overpowering of the Holy Spirit." The Holy Spirit does overshadow our life.

Douglas says, "What we fail to appreciate is that birth as we know it is a mysterious and thoroughly remarkable occurrence. That the coming together of two cells, microscopic in size should produce a human being, and that those cells should contain all the mental, physical and moral characteristics which go to make up the living man is a miracle which we fail to appreciate because of its frequency having made it commonplace." Explain how that happens, or why that happens to me, sometime. The miracle of birth happens every day, and it happens so often that the frequency of it has caused us to call it commonplace. But it's not any easier to understand than is the virgin birth. So the virgin birth is only the heightening of a process already miraculous in its nature. The birth itself is miraculous and not capable of being understood.

Another reason given for not accepting the virgin birth is that there are only two gospels which mention it. It's not mentioned in Mark, it's not mentioned in John, it's not mentioned in the rest of the entire New Testament. Paul doesn't refer to it, Jude doesn't refer to it, nobody else referred to it. It's recorded only in these two first chapters of Matthew and Luke. They say that if it was that all-fired important, surely it would be mentioned somewhere else.

Of course we still have the dilemma that it is mentioned in Matthew and Luke. Are we only going to accept as Gospel that which Mark writes or that which John writes? Well, then we are going to have to do away with the temptation of Jesus, the institution of the Lord's Supper, the Lord's Prayer, Sermon on the Mount, because John doesn't speak of any of these.

THAT'S ENOUGH of the negative. Why believe in it? I believe the value of the doctrine of the virgin birth lies in the fact that it underscores the significance of who Christ was. However, it happened, it underscores the fact that when this baby was born it was God's baby, and through this life God lived among us. This was the point that Matthew and Luke were trying to instill upon the readers.

They were trying to let them know the great mystery of the incarnation in as simple a way as they knew how to define it. We believe that this Jesus was God in the flesh. Joseph Parker, again, says that "if you say this story is difficult to believe, well you then be good enough to suggest another story by which we shall escape all difficulty, the object being to bring into the human race a man different from all other men and yet a savior and redeemer of all mankind. It is not enough for us to criticize the method by which Jesus was declared to come into the world; we ought to go one step further, if we can, and that is to suggest a method which would have been clear of every difficulty and yet which would have obviously covered the whole ground and accomplished the one supreme design. Observe what had to be done. A redeemer like ourselves in all points as we had to be introduced into the race and yet so unlike us as to be wholly separate from sinners. Put that problem distinctly before your mind and answer how it could have been accomplished as a grand historical success except upon the basis which is laid down in that of the evangelical narrative."

Whether or not it's the only way God could have done it, it is the way God chose to do it. He could, of course, have brought into this world a full-grown man like he did the first Adam. The second Adam could have been created like the first Adam but He wouldn't have been bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh. He wouldn't have known our temptations, he wouldn't have known all the stages of our life, he wouldn't have known all the various processes of our living. When we go to our high priest we would be talking to someone who was completely foreign to our whole sphere of existence. Now when we go to Jesus with our problems, with our temptations, with our needs; when we're hungry, when we're lonely, when we're tempted, we go to one who went through it also and knows "our frame, He knoweth that we are dust." Through this magnificent fact we see His dual nature, God becoming a man for us.

IN THESE verses I think we see God's estimate of sex. The Scriptures say, "That which was conceived in Mary's womb was conceived by the Holy Spirit." God placed His own cell in the sex organ of a woman and in so doing He did not enter more nor less than I did when I sire two sons into this world. This holy function which man so often has degraded, God employed to effect the greatest good the world has ever known. Sex is the stamp of God in our life. The degrading and perversion of this particular area of our life, is to degrade the stamp of God in our very being. There are things which the Scripture calls good. This is one of them. Always, marriage was to be the framework in which sex is to be enjoyed and employed. Let John Fletcher write of all the various situations he can imagine where this might not be necessary. He wrote a "What-if Book." What if you're on a desert island, what if — and then he conjures several situations where old rules should not apply.

When you get away from the scriptural foundation for living, you've gone off into a sphere in which normal life is not possible. You've regressed to that chaotic state described in Kings, "Every man did that which was right in his own eyes."

The virgin birth is the divine certification of the fact that our salvation goes directly to God. This is its glory, that God came down and took upon Himself the form of a man. "In the fullness of time," Paul says, "God sent forth His son, born of a woman, born under the law, to redeem those who are under the law." Paul said, "If God spared not His own son for us, will He not also give us all things with Him?" This is a certification that God loves us, that He's on our side. Anything that bothers us we can bring to Him; any sin which disturbs us and mars we can take to Him for cleansing; any weakness which hinders us, we can bring to Him for strength and power. This is the divine certification that God is with us.

HEBERT IGNORES BOMB THREAT

Solon Hails War Stepup

By BUCK LANIER
Navy Editor

Speaking despite a bomb threat, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., told the San Fernando Valley American Legion's eighth annual Armed Forces Day Luncheon that "America is beginning a maximum effort in Vietnam, and it is high time."

A packed house of 700 military and civilian guests, many from Long Beach, including some 30 flag rank officers, shrugged off news of a phone call to the Sportsman Lodge that a bomb was due to go off at 12:15 p.m.

The consensus among the crowd was that it was a crank and the meeting continued. Los Angeles police were notified, however.

Hebert, a 27-year veteran of the House and the ranking member of the Armed Services Committee, is scheduled to be grand marshal in today's Torrance Armed Forces Day Parade at 10 a.m.

He told the luncheon: "Our move into the demilitarized zone is long overdue. We are going to be able to knock out plenty of the Viet Cong's military potential here. We won't go into North Vietnam though."

His wide-ranging talk, interrupted six times by applause, touched on:

—Reactivation of battleships: "Should have been done nine months ago. Why waste $3-million airplanes on targets that can be destroyed by 16-inch guns in the sanctuary of the sea?" (Word is expected within a week that the USS New Jersey and the USS Missouri will be taken out of mothballs.)

—The Vietnam War: "There is no such thing as a popular war. People, including innocent civilians, are going to be hurt."

—Dissenters: "I would be the last one to take away the right of dissent, but when that dissent moves into law breaking, it is time to clamp down. Martin Luther King, after his glorious job of helping to lead his people out of bondage, is turning now into an American Castro. He should be in jail, along with Stokely Carmichael."

—The Justice Department: "I charge the Justice Department with a 'dereliction of duty' in its refusal to prosecute treason and sedition as exemplified by the anti-American demonstrators. This is clear violation of Article 3 of the Constitution."

Hebert also said "if Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr. wants the 4th Division (Reserves) reactivated, he should have it today."

Car 'Falls Apart', Student Awarded $5,100 Damages

A Municipal Court jury awarded $1,000 in actual damages and $4,100 in punitive damages to a 28-year old graduate college student in a suit against a Long Beach used car dealer who sold him a car that "went to pieces."

The jury voted 10-2 in favor of Joe V. Sheehan, a graduate student in anthropology at the University of California at Davis in his suit against Murphy Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., 1940 Lakewood Blvd.

In the suit, Sheehan, represented by Atty. William

W. Prokssel, asked for $1,000 in losses incurred in attempting to repair the car, and $4,000 in punitive damages.

THE JURY granted $1,000 actual damages against the company and one of its salesmen, Jeff Caruthers, plus $4,000 in punitive damages against the dealer and $100 in punitive damages against Caruthers.

The trial was held in the court of Judge John C. Spence. Sheehan alleged he paid $3,299 for a 1962 Lincoln Aug. 5, 1965, just a week after it was advertised for $2,799.

In addition Sheehan said he spent more than $600 for repairs to keep the car running after the dealer and the salesman had warranted the car to be in good mechanical condition.

He also alleged that he was deprived of its use for six months because he couldn't afford to make the necessary repairs before it finally was repossessed because he couldn't make the payments and also pay for repairs.

4 Council Candidates in Alamitos

Four men became candidates Friday as the nomination period closed for a special election to fill a vacancy on Los Alamitos City Council.

The election will be July 11 in six consolidated precincts to pick a successor to August Labourette, who resigned in mid-April. The candidates are William E. (Ned) Fox, 42, an executive with a water softener firm; Kenneth Miller, 37, an engineer at Douglas Aircraft Division, Long Beach; Glenn McClellan, 39, a machine operator; and Eme Otte, 57, a real estate broker and former city councilman.

Otte was recalled from his former City Council service in April, 1964. He tried a comeback in this year's municipal election in April and lost by only two votes to Dale Kroesen.

Negroes Cut Classes on Malcolm X's Day

Thousands of Negroes boycotted high school campuses in Compton and south-central Los Angeles Friday in observance of the birthday of slain Black Nationalist leader Malcolm X.

Dr. Vernon A. Hinze, assistant superintendent for high schools, said Long Beach officials had anticipated such a boycott might materialize here.

"But to our knowledge," he said, "there was none." Compton High Principal Edward Moore reported a major desertion at that school, with approximately 1,250 absentees.

"They just aren't here," he said, when pressed for explanations.

In Los Angeles, upwards of 3,000 young Negroes gathered at Griffith Park for a picnic commemorating the death of Malcolm, cut down by an assassin's bullet as he addressed a New York meeting in 1964.

Los Angeles police said the picnickers were peaceful and well-behaved.

But two members of the Black Nationalist organization US were arrested about midday as they attempted to hand out literature advocating the student boycott at Fremont High School. They were released on $500 bond each.

Ron Karenga, a Black Nationalist leader and chairman of US, planned to wed 10 couples Friday afternoon in what he said was "the first traditional African marriage ritual ever held in this country."

Los Angeles City Schools officials said absences were running about 10 to 20 per cent higher than normal at most of the south central area schools, with Jordan, Fremont and Washington particularly hard hit. Manual Arts and Dorsey were affected as well, but officials at Jefferson said the absentee rate was "about normal."

Lindy Was Booed When He Landed

By MARK CLUTTER

Boos greeted Charles A. Lindbergh when he landed at Le Bourget Field outside Paris 40 years ago today, Douglas Rigby, author and newspaperman, said in an interview Friday.

"You'll not read that anywhere," Rigby said, "but I was there. I heard the boos."

RIGBY TOLD of the landing. "A California dancer, Katherine Edson, Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett of New York City and I went to the airport to wait for Lindbergh. We stood on the roof of the administration building, Isadora Duncan, the dancer, was also there.

"It wasn't much of a crowd, maybe 2,000. The press was there, but just adequately. The number of reporters was not large.

"Everybody thought he would land in the afternoon—if he ever did land. It got dark and there were only two small lights in the corners of the field. People turned on their car lights. A plane flew over. Then another flew over, circled a bit, went on and then came back. It was Lindbergh's.

"The crowd cheered, but it was more of an incredulous sound than a real cheer. The people just couldn't believe it had happened. And there was a strong undertone of booing. I account for the boos by the fact that two French World War aces had been lost at sea just a few days earlier while trying to make an east-to-west crossing."

Police held back the crowd from the plane and the American ambassador took Lindbergh to the embassy.

There were no boos the next day. The whole world went into a period of hero worship. The Lone Eagle overnight became a demigod.

Rigby was one of those fortunate young Americans who lived in Paris after the first World War. He worked for the Chicago Tribune and the New York Herald Tribune. Later he worked for New York newspapers and as a newspaperman in Mexico. He is the author of two books, "Lock, Stock and Barrel, the Story of Collecting" and "Desert Happy," and many magazine articles.

He is a guest in the home of his niece, Mrs. B. C. Moore of 5551 La Pasada St. His home is in Sedona, Ariz.

Principal Ouster Bid Brings Rift

By DON KIRKLAND

Parents chose up sides this week in a battle that promises to split the predominantly Negro community around Compton's Enterprise Junior High School.

On the one hand is the faction that asked Monday for the dismissal of Principal Harrison L. Hopkins, a Caucasian, and his entire administrative staff because of their alleged ineffectiveness in dealing with the largely Negro student body.

But another group of parents, made up principally of members of the Parent-Teacher Association, charged Friday that the ouster proponents are attempting to establish a black ghetto in the area by forcing the school district to hire Negro administrators.

ONE OF TWO vice principals is a Negro, as is about half of the faculty, the school district said. Speaking for the opposition group, which calls itself the Better Housing Committee, member Charles Countee, a Negro, defended Hopkins' record. "The charges against him are unjustifiable. They're trying to crucify him, and yet he has done a lot for the Negro community."

Countee, who attended Compton schools when Hopkins was a teacher and later himself became a teacher under Hopkins, described the 25-year veteran educator as a man who has been straightforward in his relationships with the community. "If you were wrong, you were wrong," said Countee. "It didn't make any difference whether you were white, yellow, black or green."

COUNTREE also credited Hopkins with establishing the school district's first Cadet program, one similar to the ROTC in other areas. He later fought successfully for the first Negro cadet commandant to be admitted to the program's summer camp.

"He has always been fair — never prejudiced," said Countee. The group seeking Hopkins' removal, including some members who do not have children at Enterprise, says Enterprise is one of several "feeder" schools to the district's two high schools, and that it is the weak link among them.

The committee charges that students demonstrate a lack of progress due to poor instruction and supervision.

he said, the work of the Salvation Army is as vital as ever for the guidance of youth, especially in major cities.

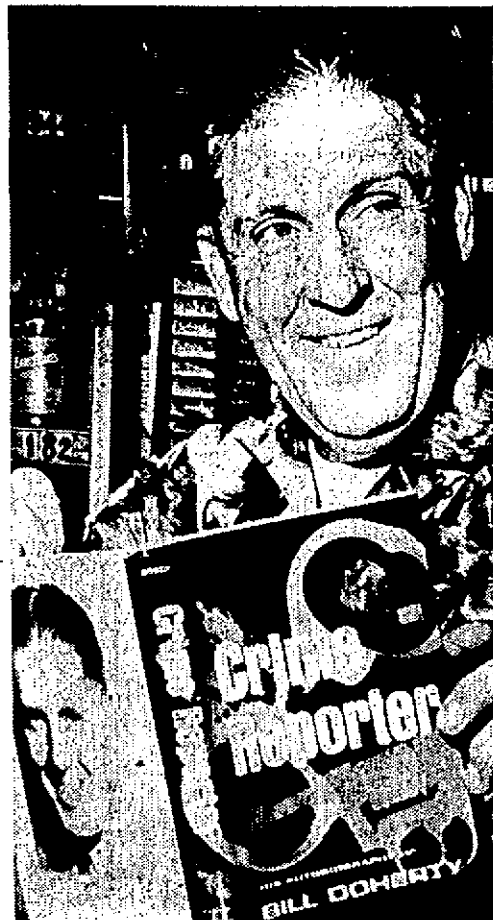

The brigadier recalled that his late father joined Booth's original Christian Mission in the slums of East London in the middle of the last century, and that his mother has been a Salvationist for 80 of her 89 years.

Initially, his own career was as a sailor in the British Navy the short-statured, peppery speaker said. Becoming a boxer, he left the sea, won the British lightweight championship, then emigrated to Canada where he became featherweight champion.

However, his boxing career ended with a resounding defeat in New York by champion Johnny Dundee, Sept. 22, 1922, and he then returned to the family's traditional religious and charitable work, he said.

Brig. Orval A. Taylor, Southern California divisional commander, installed as new officers John T. Wolf, chairman; Bernard McCune, vice chairman; Mrs. Mary Alice May, secretary, and Roy L. Anderson, treasurer, who was chairman for Friday's meeting.

Introduced as new members of the advisory board were Mrs. Robert C. Westmyer, Edward H. Ripperdam, John Stanley, Mrs. Clifford E. Pierce, Morton Lytle, James T. Hedrick and John Inderbeiten.

By GEORGE LAINE

For nearly 30 years, Bill Doherty covered Chicago's violence-filled police beat, becoming more and more inured to crime and terror.

"After you cover a few stickups," he reminisced, "they get routine. You start looking for the strange ones, the ones with a twist."

Doherty, who assembled some of his police beat experiences in a book called "Crime Reporter," fielded one that you won't read in the book on the day after Easter, 1965, in a liquor store he purchased after quitting Illinois for Long Beach.

"I always felt a guy who's in business looks to get held up once in a while," Bill said, running a hand through this shock of grey-white hair. "I guess most of us would feel that way—until it happens to us."

ON THAT SPRING DAY, two young men walked into the store, strolled to the large refrigerator and removed a six-pack of beer. They brought it to the cash register.

"I thought they were young but I never dreamed they were bandits," Doherty recalled his thoughts. "I asked if they had ID."

"Sure, we got ID," one of them said. He brought up his hand and he was holding a revolver.

"I looked right into it, the barrel as big as a piece of pipe. I could see the bullets in the cylinder, copper-plated and deadly. I felt a chill right on the top of my spine."

"I had a ballbat over the counter and I had told myself that if anyone tried to rob me, I'd just reach up, get the ballbat and bash their head for them."

"The gun made it different. I was hypnotized by it. I couldn't move. I didn't do anything until they told me to put my money in a sack."

"They got about $150 and a bottle of Scotch. They had good taste."

One of the two youths, a blond youngster with his hair parted in the middle, stood out in Doherty's memory. He told investigating officers about it. An hour later, the detective was back with a picture of the robber. "That's him," said Doherty and the two men were in jail within eight hours, on their way to prison.

'In the Midwest, criminal syndicates run almost everything. Out here it's not like that ...

It's Clean Out Here

SINCE THEN, DOHERTY'S Circle Liquors, at 4434 E. Pacific Coast Highway, has been held up three times. Doherty hasn't been around for any of them but two of his employees, Alice Edwards and Bill Myers, were.

"Alice gave a couple of guys about $100," Bill recalled, "and Bill gave up $90 and his watch early in December and about $60 in February. Bill's a hard luck guy. He was working at the store when I bought it and stayed on to work for me. He's been robbed five times in the last four years."

Doherty's exploits as a police reporter in the Windy City are well summarized in his book. One earned him a Pall Mall award (and the $500 that goes with it) and that one is retold in the book along with a number of other action-packed tales.

Bill shifted to California five years ago to take a public relations job with a Downey firm. Four months after he arrived the company merged and consolidated while Bill was three months into paying off the mortgage on his home at 3420 Kaylor Ave. He decided to stay, invested his savings in purchase of a liquor store and told his wife, son and daughter to relax and enjoy Long Beach.

SOUTHLAND CITIZENS have a multitude of blessings, Doherty feels, but they only recognize a few of them.

"Far and away the most important thing to citizens here is the failure — and I mean failure — of mobs or gangs to get a foothold."

"In the Midwest, criminal syndicates run almost everything. In Chicago, if a liquor store owner orders a case of Old Crow, the distributor shows up with a case of it and a case of Gold Seal because that may be what they're pushing."

"Out here, it's not like that. It's clean out here."

Old Time U.S. Home Said Key in Youth Crime Fight

By VINT MADER

Reversal of present serious trends in youthful crime will require a return to "the old-fashioned American home of past years," Salvation Army Brig. Andrew P. Telfer told the annual report meeting of the Army's Long Beach advisory board Friday night.

Pointing to statistics that show the average age of prisoners is now 18 years and one month, compared with 27 years and five months two decades ago, he said "young people stand at the crossroads in this explosive age, wondering which way to go."

Brig. Telfer, who is general eral secretary for the Army's men's social service work in western states with headquarters in San Francisco, also said 76.5 per cent of all crimes are now committed by youths under 18.

"You and I hold the destinies of America's tomorrow in our hands," he told the gathering at the Salvation Army Temple, 455 E. Spring St.

"If only we can take care of our kids today, we'll have prosperous tomorrows."

Besides the need for parents to restore home worship and the family Bible, he said, the work of the Salvation Army is as vital as ever for the guidance of youth, especially in major cities.

The brigadier recalled that his late father joined Booth's original Christian Mission in the slums of East London in the middle of the last century, and that his mother has been a Salvationist for 80 of her 89 years.

Initially, his own career was as a sailor in the British Navy the short-statured, peppery speaker said. Becoming a boxer, he left the sea, won the British lightweight championship, then emigrated to Canada where he became featherweight champion.

However, his boxing career ended with a resounding defeat in New York by champion Johnny Dundee, Sept. 22, 1922, and he then returned to the family's traditional religious and charitable work, he said.

Brig. Orval A. Taylor, Southern California divisional commander, installed as new officers John T. Wolf, chairman; Bernard McCune, vice chairman; Mrs. Mary Alice May, secretary, and Roy L. Anderson, treasurer, who was chairman for Friday's meeting.

Introduced as new members of the advisory board were Mrs. Robert C. Westmyer, Edward H. Ripperdam, John Stanley, Mrs. Clifford E. Pierce, Morton Lytle, James T. Hedrick and John Inderbeiten.

INSTALLED

John Loupy, owner of the Pacific Coast Highway Travelodge, Friday was installed president of the Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau at a dinner in Lafayette Hotel. Also installed were Noel Cady, vice president; Doug Langer, treasurer and Vicki Hughes, secretary.

City May Get Work-Aid Program from the County

From Our L.A. Bureau

The extension of a work-training program for welfare recipients into the Long Beach area is being considered by the County Public Social Welfare Department.

The program, which encourages private industry to provide on-the-job training for indigent, unskilled persons by subsidizing part of the training costs, was given a $700,000 shot in the arm Friday when federal officials agreed to grant that amount from Title V funds for 1967.

THE GOVERNMENT had previously said it would not make additional funds available to the county this year because the county-operated program had not been effective.

But Ellis P. Murphy, county welfare director, said in announcing the grant that there had merely been a communication problem with Health, Education and Welfare Department officials and that the problem had been resolved.

The county had received $1.8 million for the year ending May 31, and had been told no money would be forthcoming after that date. Murphy said the $700,000 figure was the result of a reduction of one-third in the basic appropriation to HEW.

Most of the $700,000 will be used in East Los Angeles and south central Los Angeles, but Murphy said his department hoped to initiate a program in the Long Beach area.

In addition to the $700,000 for work-training, the county will receive $1.5 million for Project Adult Training, a program designed to help train persons not otherwise eligible for welfare aid, and $566,899 for Child Care Centers.

The county operates child care centers at 14431 Stanford Ave., Compton, and 1623 E. 118th St., Los Angeles, and these two centers will receive 42 per cent of the allotment, Murphy said.

A Project Adult Training facility is located at 10221 S. Central Ave., and it is expected to be allocated $741,759, roughly half of the total.

$1,095 Gear Taken

Tape recording gear valued at $1,095 was taken from the apartment of Kenneth Joseph Marks, 212 Quincy Ave., by prowlers who pried open the front door, Long Beach police said Friday.

Series to Examine 'Sexual Revolution'

You can draw a dirty symbol on the blackboard in one Southland school system, and none of the kids crack up anymore.

Sophisticated students, they. They're the products of an enlightened sex-education program.

Time was when they wrote on the bathroom walls—but not now. These days they're "sexperts"; they know the score.

BUT NOT ALL adolescents are so fortunate. Many are confused. Parents are panicky.

For the United States — not to mention Sweden and other nations — is in the midst of a sexual revolution.

The biggest since ancient Rome, one scientist notes. Medical-science editor Ben Zinser takes a look at "The Swinging Sixties — Sex and the Teen Scene" in a seven-part series beginning in this newspaper Sunday.

Nuclear Weapons to Spread

By EARL GRISWOLD

The spread of nuclear weapons isn't likely to be halted in the foreseeable future, but that prospect isn't altogether so dismal as it might seem today.

That was the message of a brilliant young California State College at Long Beach alumnus, William R. Van Cleave, '62, in an appearance at the campus Friday under auspices of the General Honors Program.

Van Cleave, now senior political scientist at the Strategic Studies Center of the Stanford Research Institute, predicted that within 10 years countries will have the capability to develop nuclear weapons at a price "cheaper than they can build up their conventional forces."

And China, he pointed out, "can develop a sufficient and sophisticated nuclear arsenal easier than it can raise the living standard of its people."

The rising nuclear threat of China is a spur to nuclear proliferation, particularly in such places as Japan, India and Australia, he said.

The big push for a treaty to halt proliferation isn't likely to win wide support outside the five powers now having nuclear weapons—the United States, Russia, England, France and China.

But the prospect of proliferation, though hazardous, isn't so gloomy as to be without its positive aspects, he suggested.

One of the simpler positive aspects he cited was the increased assumption of self-protection responsibilities by nations outside the big-five nuclear powers block.

pressure throughout the list. In fact, trading interest seemed to be more concentrated in the stronger issues and as a result there were an unusually large number of multi-point gainers for a down day in the market. The volume for the session was somewhat deceptive as it was swelled by the extremely heavy trading in Pacific Petroleum and the record one-million-share block in this issue, Pacific Petroleum accounted for approximately 12.4 per cent of the total volume on the New York Stock Exchange Thursday.

THE MARKET has now completed almost two weeks of consolidation following its sharp April-May advance but thus far has not suffered any significant technical damage. The Dow-Jones industrial average is the prime soft spot, having now surrendered approximately 50 per cent of its previous gain. This index is also now in an area where according to the charts it should begin to meet some support. The rails, helped Thursday by the industry's application to the ICC for a freight rate increase, are displaying a bullish divergence from the industrials and the Dow-Jones rail average again reached a new recovery high.

Volume indications continue to be quite positive with the bears still unable to gain much of a following. This is not an insignificant development in view of the generally negative business news over the past week which included a number of discouraging statements by corporate executives as well as concern over the international situation and the prospects for an enormous federal deficit for fiscal 1968. The short-interest figures for May are the highest in history, hardly the background for an extensive market decline. The short-interest ratio shows only a negligible drop to 1.48 from April's 1.51 level. Unless the market is weaker than the various technical statistics indicate, the current declining phase could be close to an end. This may have been suggested Thursday by the more aggressive attitude shown by traders toward the volatile issues.

DESPITE THE lower market trend this week, such well liked issues as Joy Mfg.—35%—Kaiser Aluminum—52%—Texas Gulf Sulphur—116%—U.S. Smelting—63—Chromalloy-American—46—Mead Johnson—33½—Philadelphia Reading—58%—and Minerals & Chemicals Philipp—39%—continued to give a good account of themselves. These issues still look higher and are rated as holds or buys on weakness. Dresser Industries—36—is being added to our list today. This issue has been in a gradual uptrend this year which now shows signs of being accelerated. The earnings reports for the past few quarters have been quite favorable. Initial chart support is indicated in the 32-33 area.

Everyone for Redwood Park

—but Bill Isn't Out of Woods

Editor's Note: Nearly everyone in official Washington proclaims support of a redwood park in California, but legislation is far from passage. — This is the last of five dispatches on the controversy.

By ELMER LAMMI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to create a redwood national park in California faces a steep uphill road in Congress, even though open opposition is rarer than redwood trees in Iowa.

The question in Congress is not whether a national park should be established on California's north coast to preserve more of the majestic trees, but how this should be done.

Seldom, if ever, has Congress faced such a welter of conflicting interests and bitter controversies over a park proposal that almost everyone professes to favor.

Congress must decide not only how big the park should be, but even its location. It must decide, too, whether to break precedent and accept the hard bargain driven by Gov. Reagan in demanding compensation for state parks proposed for inclusion in the national park. And it must decide how far to go in meeting demands of the lumber industry and local interests opposed to the park.

FIRST TO wrestle is the Senate parks and recreation subcommittee under Chairman Alan Bible, D-Nev. Any compromise reached there will go to the parent Interior Committee headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Hearings have not yet been called by Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House Interior Committee, but any bill likely to emerge from the House is almost certain to differ markedly from a Senate bill.

The Bible subcommittee will look first at the Johnson administration plan for a 43,000-acre park as embodied in a bill introduced by Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif. This calls for linking the Jedediah Smith and Del Norte redwoods state parks through purchase of 8,000 acres of privately owned virgin redwood lands in the Mill Creek watershed.

A second, and much smaller, unit of the park would be established further south in the Redwood Creek area to protect the "tall trees" there.

But Congress must also consider the plan of Rep. Jeffery Cohelan, D-Calif., who, backed by the Sierra Club, says the Redwood Creek area should form the heart of a national park. His bill to create a 90,000 acre park won 35 cosponsors in the House, and an identical bill introduced in the Senate by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., drew 21 cosponsors.

Cohelan, with Metcalf's blessing, has since parted company with the Sierra Club to urge a 64,000-acre "compromise" plan which he estimated would cost $90 million.

ABOUT $32 million would be offset by land exchanges, he said, and thus reduce the cost to about the $60 million estimated for the administration plan—a figure that is hotly disputed by the lumber industry.

A fourth plan—and perhaps least likely to succeed—is that of Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-Calif., in whose district the park would be located. The Clausen "redwoods-to-the-sea" plan calls for a combined national park and seashore of 53,000 acres.

Because it would take in relatively little private land, the plan won support from lumber interests and local officials fearful of the impact of a national park on the economy and county tax revenues.

The key to success or failure of any redwood national park bill appears to lie with Reagan and the state legislature.

Both Clausen and a spokesman for Reagan made a point of warning the Senate committee that the state had, in effect, a "veto power" over any park plan contemplating inclusion of state parks. But Bible expressed "grave concern" over the governor's demand for a land swap and said he had "serious doubts" whether Congress would be willing to compensate the state for its parks.

BOOK REVIEWS

VILLAGES IN INDONESIA Edited by Koentjaraningrat. Cornell University Press, $10.

Indonesia is much in the news nowadays; the country and its people have turned away from the isolation into which Sukarno had led it and are seeking to become a part of the world community. We read of politics, like Sukarno, and Suharto, and Nasution, two who led in Sukarno's overthrow. But what of the people of Indonesia, particularly its villagers.

This excellent survey of 13 Indonesian villages is the first grass-roots study of Indonesian village society in the period since the Indonesians divested themselves of their Dutch colonial masters. It is all the more fascinating in view of the wide ethnic diversity in the villages of that nation of seemingly unnumbered islands.

Bali, West Timor, West Sumatra, Ambon, West Irian, Java itself, are among the islands whose villages and villagers are studied. The contributors are anthropologists and sociologists, and the majority of them are Indonesians, in itself making this an unusual book.

NEW GRANADA. Twenty Months in the Andes. By

Isaac F. Holton. Edited and with an introduction by C. Harvey Gardiner. Southern Illinois University Press, $7.50.

New Granada was the old name for Colombia. The 1850s were a restless decade in that country, as they were in much of the rest of Latin America. Isaac F. Holton, New Englander, bachelor and botanist, was attracted to the South American country by curiosity about its customs and political life, and of course, by its flora. He saw the country not as a mere tourist, but as a participant in its life in city and hinterland. His observations are a model for a visitor to another culture in any day and age and they are spiced with humor.

JOURNEYS ACROSS THE PAMPAS AND AMONG THE ANDES. By Frances Bond Head. Edited and with an introduction by C. Harvey Gardiner. Southern Illinois University Press, $7.50.

Southern Illinois University Press continues its excellent series of Latin American travel, in which Cuba, Brazil, Mexico, Chile, Colombia, and Argentina of the 19th century, as seen through American and English eyes, have been emphasized. In the early part of that century British business and investment were extensive on the continent, and Englishmen, a deeply observant and sometimes disdainful breed, roamed far and wide.

Francis Bond Head was one of these; he investigated gold and silver mines for the Rio Plata Mining Company and kept his eyes and ears open wherever he went, which was quite far in 1825 and 1826.

Called "Galloping Head," he would sometimes cover 100 miles a day on horseback. He has much to say of Indians, gauchos and rough and ready settlers in the then opening-up parts of Argentina and Chile.

For the Children

MOON MAN. By Tom Ungerer. Harper & Row, $4.50.

Every 9x14 page a breathtaking illustration in striking color, "Moon Man" has adventure and suspense for the very young listener and gentle satire for the reader-aloud. How does Moon Man escape from his jail cell for his longed-for fun on Earth? He slips through the bars when he is in his third quarter, of course! For ages 4 to 8. —E.P.H.

CHARLIE THE TRAMP. By Russell Hoban; illus. Lillian Hoban. Four Winds, $2.95.

Fans of Frances (Bedtime, Bread and Jam, et al) will find Charlie, a beaver youth, an equally sympathetic character. As does Frances, in her stories, Charlie learns a valuable lesson, but the Hobans' find style in both prose and illustration make a delightful book for ages 4 to 8. —E.P.H.

THE WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

A doctor in Tulsa traded in a foreign import on a Rambler American. A businessman in Tulsa traded in the highest priced U.S.-built car on a Rambler American.

These are but two of thousands of trades American Motors dealers have taken on Rambler Americans since the compact car was repositioned in February in the price gap between small imports and comparably sized U.S. makes.

"Our dealers report there has been a major change in the type of customers visiting their showrooms in the past 11 weeks," William S. Pickett, vice president of automotive sales for American Motors, said.

"Young people, both married couples and college students, are accounting for a much larger percentage of our sales than ever before," Pickett said. "For example, three college students in the Denver area purchased Americans right after we announced price reductions ranging from $154 to $234.

"But there has been considerable buying up as well. In Topeka, two college students went to a dealer to look at Americans and both bought them."

Pickett said a majority of the foreign trade-ins have come from the young married group.

"These young people are interested primarily in economical and reliable transportation," he said. "Now that we have narrowed the price gap between the American and the imports, such factors as our 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty on most major components becomes the determining factor in many car buying decisions.

"We have had some dealers tell us that one-third or more of trades they have taken on Americans were imports. One New England dealer who hadn't received a foreign trade-in for several years took three immediately after the American price reduction."
